

QAKS

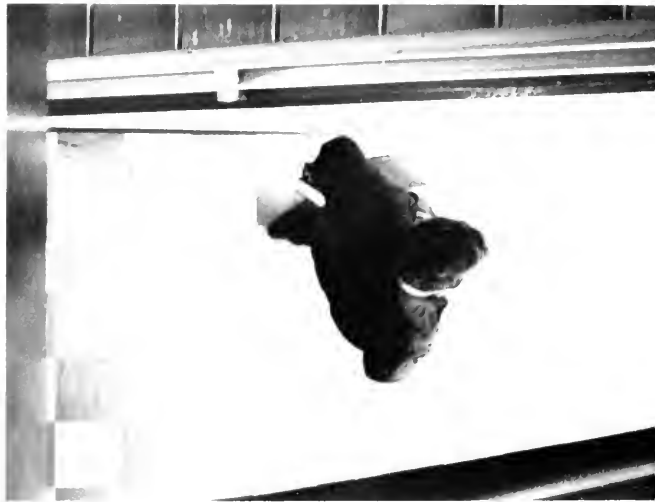

THE OAK 1965

INDIANA STATE COLLEGE, INDIANA, PENNSYLVANIA

Let me sing you a ballad of faces, times, and places. May it be a song of sweetness, sadness and haunting groves. And as we walk onward, with the others, we may pause a moment to sense and reflect on the now, the immediacy of the moment, lest in the transition that is always today we lose these meantime impressions to tomorrow.
Let this be our song, and, as in all good rounds, sing it loudly, together . . .

Between the Sundays and Fridays falls an interim, an area of time shared with a few, experienced with many. What makes importance is the bearing of the mood upon the moment. Perhaps we'll "make it" today, maybe it'll happen tomorrow. The inhabitant of the academic community is constantly absorbing moments, reacting to the now.

Invading the bookstore for shopping bags, dinks and Life Savers the freshman may splurge and purchase a book or two for outside reading. Chances are it'll be Christmas vacation before he'll have a free moment to read it, but he was so optimistic then we didn't tell him.

From attending classes to frugging at the Union on Friday nights, the Freshman searches for his identification within the community he has adopted as his four year home. The college community is essentially a small one but it takes all of the student's determination to establish himself as a distinct entity on campus. The risk of becoming one of the mass is frightening to the individual. Freshman year, with its problems of adjustment, forces the beginning student to ask himself once more, "Who am I?"

The coldest day of the fall was Homecoming, 1964. Icy rains and snow drizzled on the crepe-paper floats. Bare armed queens and sweethearts smiled bravely as their lips turned blue. Alumni stood stiffly along the parade route, hands in pockets and noses red. At the game students held hands under stadium blankets and children bundled in sweaters and snow suits romped over the fairyland of floats parked outside the field.

With the exception of the cold Homecoming, autumn was an extended Indian summer of afternoons spent with books in the Oak Grove and back-to-school parties lasting until October. The tempo became more accelerated as mid-terms approached. Art majors withdrew from East Campus to work indoors, coat racks at the Union became laden with heavier gear and the last of the leaves were cleared from the frozen lawn of the Oak Grove.

Students are some of the few people in our society still working a seven-day week.

Thomas C. Mendenhall,
President of Smith College

The 48 hour week is an unknown luxury to the college student. Assignments seem to multiply at an inordinate rate until Sunday finds him spending an all-night session in preparation for Monday's classes. Adjusting to new pressures becomes his way of life.

We walk down familiar walks each day until we assume a quiet kind of ownership of campus paths. Then, winter subsiding, we discover our days have become as so many footprints in the snow, to be obliterated by Spring rains.

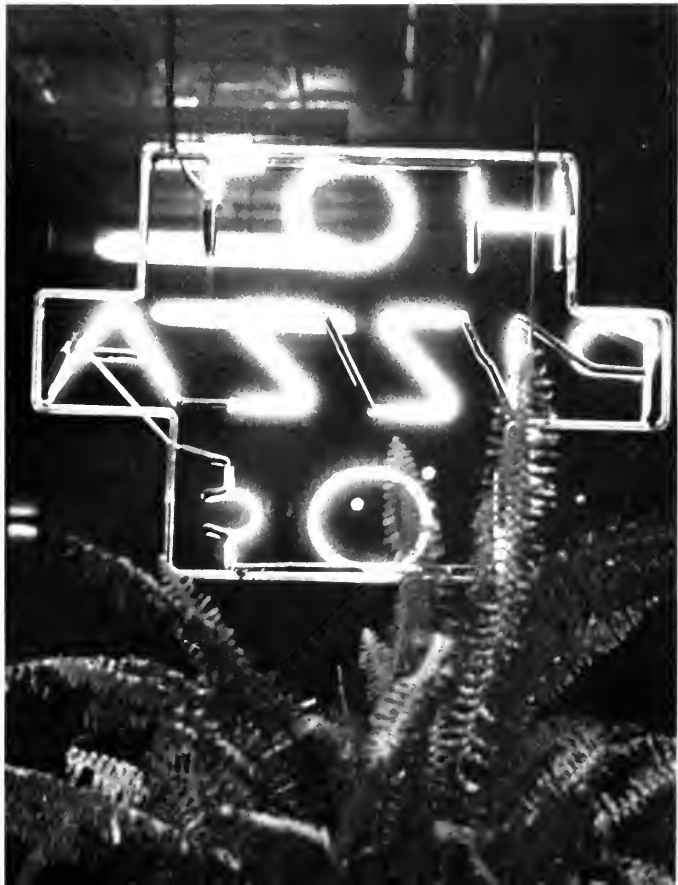

And then the rains came, but except for swamp coats and wet tennis shoes we weren't too much concerned. There was always a warm, dry place to take cover and with it came an inner glow of security, books clutched close to chest, damp hands pulling wet hairs back into place, and a hot cup of coffee at the Union.

Homecoming gaiety is tinged with nostalgia of recent grads, but spring Swing-Out weekend is unmitigated merriment. Months before, musical rehearsals begin, queen candidates are nominated and crews of student workers begin pounding away at scenery, collecting props and mixing paint. On the big day, a parade forms, and a queen is crowned to reign over the May fantasy of song, dance, and laughter.

“Though nothing can bring back the hour
Of splendor in the grass, of glory in the flower;
We will grieve not, rather find
Strength in what remains behind.”

Wordsworth, “Intimations of Immortality from Recollection of Childhood”

Coach Klausung

FOOTBALL

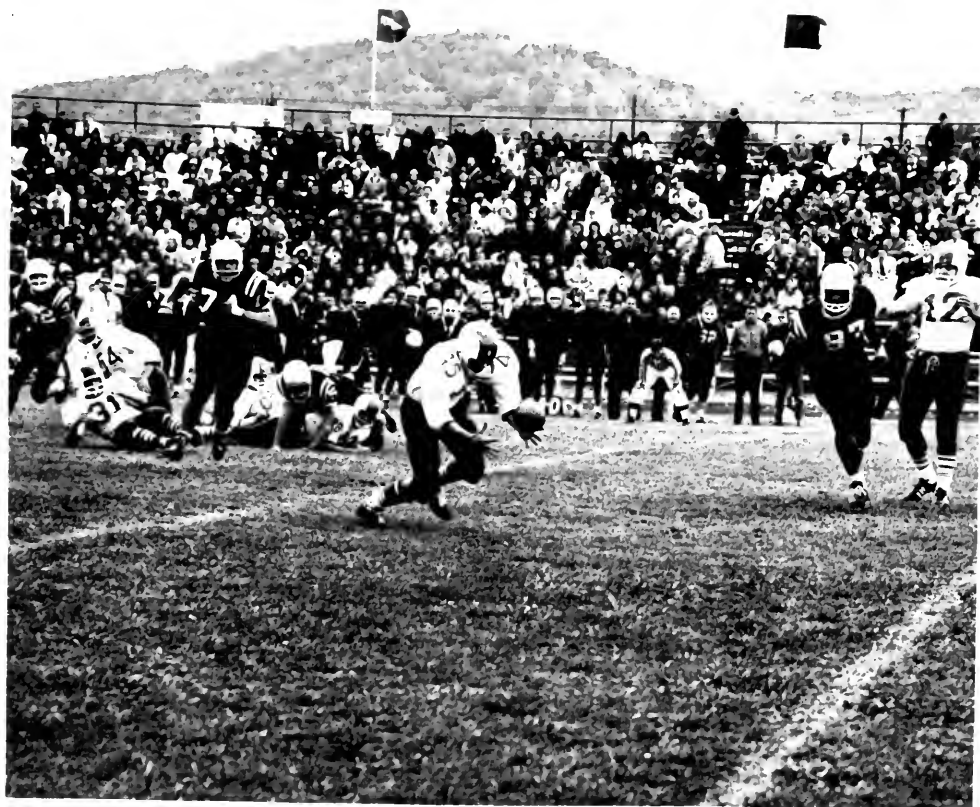

The defense moved with sure stinging cold tackles. Offensively the Big Indians were clean and rough while specialists grew ruthless within the ethics of the game. Under new head coach Chuck Klausung, the Indiana State College gridironers romped to a record of 8 wins and 1 defeat. Excitingly brilliant, the team, with field general Mickey Watson, exhibited stringent defence and superior aerial ability to thread the needle that sewed up the Western Pennsylvania State College Championship. Standout seniors—Joe Bellissimo, Gene Eply, Tom Modrak, Frank Yusi and junior Mickey Watson were named to the All-Pennsylvania State College lineup.

BASKETBALL

Success in any sport is dictated by three fundamentals: hustle, teamwork, and desire. Co-captains Mel Hankinson and Jack Benhart, recognized as one of the best 1-2 scoring combinations in the conference, led Indiana into a season that promised a championship. Working for openings and making quick lay-ups and steals, the cagers exhibited all of these characteristics though the championship never materialized. Unable to overcome their opponents' height advantage, Coach Sledzik's hard fighting team had to rely on a quick striking offense and hawk-like, pressing defense led by Don Douds and Mike Spingola. Hopes are promising for next season with a nucleus of returning lettermen and a group of tall, hustling freshmen.

Coach Herm Sledzik

BASEBALL

Though the diamond men, under head coach Owen Dougherty, did not realize their goal of representing Area Eight in the NAIA national playoffs at Saint Joseph, Missouri, they did submit a highly competent record of 16 wins and seven losses. Mike Sheleheda, playing catcher and outfielder positions, wrapped up a sparkling season with a .427 batting average, second only to the .500 team of Vic Maccarelli and Larry Saltarelli.

Coach Dougherty

TENNIS

Hampered by the ineligibility of four promising racket-men, the tennis squad of '64, under Coach Wade Mack, turned in a disappointing record of seven defeats and no victories. Playing the teams of California State, Slippery Rock, Juniata, St. Vincent, St. Francis, and Frostburg State Teachers, Indiana's players won 15 of their individual matches, losing 48.

GOLF

Two "firsts" have been recorded for the '64 golf team under Coach Bernard Ganley. Though few in number, the squad won the Pennsylvania State College Championship and participated in an invitational meet, placed second to Penn State, the Eastern Inter-collegiate Champion. Captained by George Malay, regulars Pete Greenawalt, Robert Wilkonsen, Stan Hanski, Guy Rossetti, and Tom Eaken played tough opposition against Slippery Rock, West Virginia, Pitt, Dickison, and Penn State. The team chalked up a 10-0 record.

TRACK

Completing the most successful track and field season of Indiana in recent years the thinclads wrapped up a distinguished campaign of four victories without a defeat. In addition to its wins over Carnegie Tech, Grove City, Lock Haven and Edinboro, the Big Indians under Coach Dr. Harold Rowe placed sixth in the annual Pennsylvania State Colleges Conference State Meet. Captain Barry Gasdek headed the victorious '64's in their great push.

RIFLE TEAM

Boasting another brilliant campaign, the Indiana Riflers aimed high and dispatched most competitors in a sport where keen eyes and steady nerves are prerequisites. During the course of the season, the Indiana Sharpshooters faced two All-American riflemen. Leading the braves were Seniors Dave Cramer, Jim Harvey and John Weyandt. Cramer, an All-American and close to being selected for a second time, led the team in scoring. Even without these seniors Coach Sergeant DeLong has confidence in his high-scoring group.

WRESTLING

A young Indiana Wrestling Team grappled their way through a satisfying season. Fighting for pins, the matmen used their speed, agility and strength to the best advantage. The season found their opponents displaying outstanding tactics to match Indiana's best. Top-flight wrestlers Ralph Hegner, Tom Crew, and Rick Camden worked their opponents for valuable points. Coach Shaffer will have returning next year all this year's squad including team captain Hegner.

In the hope that many more qualified students will be able to enjoy the benefits of a college education, Indiana now operates off-campus centers in Punxsutawney and Kittanning, Pennsylvania. At both of these centers students are able to complete the first two years of a fully accredited academic program which will enable them to apply for transfer to the main campus. Here they can complete their course of study leading to either a bachelor of arts degree or a bachelor of science in education degree.

Ninety years ago Indiana State College was founded as a private normal school for boys and girls, and young men and women. Since that time, your Alma Mater has grown in both stature and size until today it has a student body of 4,648 undergraduate students and 913 part-time students, making a total of 5,561 students at the present time.

Fifteen hundred young men and women are now enrolled in the freshman class, 93% of whom come from the upper 2,5 of their high school class, and have achieved college board scores averaging 1,040.

The faculty has grown from a few members to a staff of 278 faculty personnel at the present time. These staff members come from more than 100 colleges and universities from all parts of the country and, in fact, from many parts of the world.

Indiana enjoys an enviable reputation for having a very beautiful campus, which now includes 22 major buildings and has in some stage of construction three more. A fourth new building, a three million, seven hundred thousand dollar science complex, is now under construction.

Initially organized as a 2-year institution, Indiana was later converted to a state normal school. In 1927 it was recognized as a state teachers college, in 1955 it offered its first Master's Degree, and in 1962 became a multi-purpose institution with three schools, one in education, one in liberal arts, and a large graduate school. Recently an evening school was established to provide opportunities for working adults.

In order to give opportunities for additional young people to study at an institution of higher learning, two centers were established two years ago, one in Armstrong County, at Kittanning, and one at Punxsutawney. These centers now enroll 450 students who will come to the campus upon completion of their sophomore year.

The Indiana State College has been the largest state institution of higher learning in the Commonwealth for many years, but has emphasized quality as well as quantity.

1965 saw an increase in issues of the PENN. Formerly limited to a weekly appearance, the campus newspaper began meeting semi-weekly deadlines. Acting as the "devil's disciple" for the students and faculty, strong editorials prompted letters to the editor on such controversial topics as Indiana's transition to university status, professional attitude, and the 1964 presidential election. Feature writing in the PENN also gained in quality with the addition of Pirro's literary column, "Of Enchanted Woods and Distant Drummers." In possession of a First Class rating from Columbia and a satisfied student body, the PENN staff seems to be on the way to even higher achievements.

OAK

To make a valid statement about Indiana State College, 1965, to hit dead center of the College image—that has been the aim of your Oak Staff. We hope that we have struck target. If not, over 2,000 man hours of work, scores of film footage, reams of copy paper, and thousands of dollars have been wasted in vain. The faces on this page may not be familiar to you, but they have been your constant observer in classroom, labs, the Union, dorms, while you worked, relaxed, ate, yes, even slept. And this is their composite of all your activities—THE OAK 1965.

ART

Learning by doing seems to be the keynote of art education. Theory is fine, but will it work? The artist has a unique experience; he knows the "practical esthetic." He learns quickly that a lovely design can be made base by slipshod methods of presentation, that competence must go hand in hand with creativity. Realization that the muse inspires but does not produce becomes his invaluable lesson in professionalism.

BUSINESS

Shift . . . upper case . . . PRACTICE. In typing, tabulating columns of figures for accounting, shorthand and other office procedures that comprise a business major's curriculum, the emphasis is on practice. An instructor can explain the mechanics of typing, but until the student performs himself, his potential remains undeveloped. That the business major recognizes this is evidenced by the nocturnal lights in the business machine classrooms of McElhany Hall. His is an endeavor where "brainstorming" cannot take the place of time.

EDUCATION AND PSYCHOLOGY

Dr. Lore
Chairman

Teaching is a little more complex than standing before a class, hoping to hold attention by merely being the only moveable object in sight. Education, with its theories and experiments, is an elusive mistress. It is said that to master an art is to be able to teach it to someone else. The education major must thus first ground himself in his specialization and then in the methods needed to impart this knowledge to the pupil.

PHILOSOPHY

Dr. Hermann
Chairman

In its first year as a separate department at Indiana, the yearling Philosophy Department is the promulgator of an ancient science. Through the art of the philosopher the student searches for truth through logical deduction rather than factual observation. He is applying the methods of Socrates in defining and analyzing the grounds of our fundamental beliefs, aware that these beliefs must correspond with values manifesting themselves today.

Mr. Boyle, Dr. Hermann, Dr. McKeldin.

SPECIAL EDUCATION

The exceptional child has always been with us—it is only recently that personnel have been trained to deal with him. Along with his required courses and materials, the Special Education major brings to his profession a unique understanding of the mentally handicapped and a sensitivity to their problems. Success comes slowly, yet it does come. Because of his dedication his pupils learn.

ELEMENTARY

Love of little children leads many to choose the teaching of children as a career. Love is a beginning, but much must be learned in preparation for a successful career. The elementary major learns to understand children, to express facts in a child's way, and to show the child the ways of adults. The elementary major must know many things—arithmetic, geography, history, science, and he must have skill in drawing and dancing, singing and story telling, play-acting and play directing.

ENGLISH SPEECH

There is a special thrill opening night when the audience begins laughing at the business on stage. There is a special gratification on the day The Student Writes makes its annual debut and congratulations pour in for the authors. Between these moments of achievement fall the ordinary weeks spent in rehearsals and prop hunting, eleven-hour nights when nothing but drivel oozes from the typewriter. For the English major these have and have-not days are all part of his fascinating game of expression.

FOREIGN LANGUAGE

To understand a foreign language is to begin to understand an alien culture, for it is through language that a people express their hopes, fears, and cherished values. It is through this study that the student identifies with the many faces of mankind, yet can still recognize the differences by their semantic expression. In cultural studies he learns what a foreign culture purports: language studies teach how this is expressed. From the classroom to the United Nations, Operation Understanding is thus launched.

GEOGRAPHY

Although nomination for the Most Frustrated Student is still up for grabs, the Geography major says he has a definite lead. He is the student who realizes that there is no unalterable physical excuse for a spring thaw swamping the campus. For the time being he submits, swims his merry way, confident that when he graduates he may be able to correct the imperfect. Through field work and study he discovers the use and misuse of resources. In discovering remedies he becomes as intransigent as a doctor campaigning against malpractice.

HOME ECONOMICS

So you know how to cook. Fine. But do you also know principles of design, clothing construction, anatomy, architectural design, interior decoration, and domestic equipment? The Home Economics major does. She works in tempera and textiles, siding and slipcovers, until one might sensibly ask: "Are you an art major?" No, her art's in her seemingly serene combination of a most incompatible range. Just like Mom.

GRADUATE SCHOOL

In an age when a masters' degree is becoming a prerequisite for professional advancement, graduate school is no longer merely a haven for the "eternal student." Graduate experience gives the professional person a long awaited chance to expand, to educate himself in more than the requirements of his field. He has not graduated into a long winter's nap. He has rather awakened into the fullness of experience.

HEALTH & PHYSICAL EDUCATION

Physical fitness is more than a slogan for a program receiving emphasis from Washington. The real desire for physical fitness should be an inward drive, stemming not from external influences, but from a respect for oneself. The rewards for physical competence are many, but recognition aside, the motivating factor for physical fitness should be self-respect. Through a knowledge of our physical framework, our complex body mechanisms, we can learn to respect the many physical capacities we have. Such a respect should result ultimately in our desire to develop those capacities to their fullest.

KEITH SCHOOL

Who better is able to advise competently in educational methods than an institution dedicated to education? College and school cooperate at Keith. There the student may find himself the subject of much experimentation, designed to create a situation of the near-ideal in public education. From the student teacher to the supervising teacher, the pupil finds himself being instructed by those who have dedicated themselves to instruction.

LIBERAL ARTS

Glory be to God for dappled things—

For skies of couple-color as a brindled cow

For rose-moles all in stipple upon trout that swim

*Fresh-firecoal chestnut-falls; finches'
wings;*

*Landscape plotted and pieced—
fold, fallow, and plow*

And all trades, their gear and tackle and trim.

Gerard Manley Hopkins

For the Liberal Arts major, things are just beginning to get interesting. He may look forward to specialization in professional or graduate school; but now, in undergraduate work, he is sampling the educational menu. Because he is eating at an intellectual table, he is not merely picking at the petit fours of learning. A good percentage of his educational background will include the "solids" of each departmental curriculum. This paradoxical experience enables him to specialize in generalization.

MATHEMATICS

Checks and balances . . . the security of it all! The equation that once correct will always be so . . . And yet, there is the elusive theory behind it all—the questioning attitude that if this works, why not this, and this, ad infinitum. It is the presence of this attitude that often frustrates the math major; and yet, curiously, liberates him in a curriculum that demands uncompromising logic. He seeks what to some appears insignificant, yet to him expresses all: the discovery of a mathematical law.

MILITARY SCIENCE

Military Science has come a long way since "Straw foot, Hay foot," as practically any male undergraduate on campus can tell you. Although drills and care of equipment engage much of his time while in R.O.T.C., the cadet becomes aware, through field maneuvers and operational procedures, that he is developing his skills in one of the most progressive organizations in the nation today—the United States Army.

Brigade Commander, First Semester
Cadet Col. Larry Stanford

MUSIC

Tone fills silence. Just as the white spaces are important to the artist, silence provides the composer with an invaluable medium. Since music is not a graphic art, the music major draws sketches for the ear. His asset is his memory, and on the strength of this faculty he pledges his fortunes. Remembering the tonal coloration of an instrument, the effect of a measured beat, his mind becomes an indexed file of auditory effects. The musician's art comes through, however, when he is able to tool this file to the realities of a musical creation.

SCIENCE

Whether in biology, physics, or chemistry, the science student is learning a discipline, the habit of painstaking care in collecting data and extreme caution of formulating conclusions. Imagination he must have for speculation, for intelligent guesses, for making new applications; but for finished deductions he wants accuracy, exactness, and a reservation of "maybe," since he knows that scientific conclusions are tentative—theories, not laws.

SOCIAL SCIENCES

To the social science major, history is not merely dates and names. He is concerned more with the interaction of economic and social forces, which have shaped history. By studying the record of civilizations of the past, he is in a better position to direct our civilization. He has enough vision to realize that to chant "Ban the Bomb" is useless unless he can substantiate his predictions of the chaos that would follow nuclear war. In this age of the Almighty Scientist, the historian and social scientist has become society's prophet.

IN MEMORIAM

Clark Robb, 1963 editor of the OAK, died January 23, 1965 in a boating accident while serving in the United States Army as a second lieutenant. Clark led a charmed life as a student at Indiana State College. Recognized as an outstanding student in the Art Department, he was a member of Delta Phi Delta honorary art fraternity, Kappa Delta Pi honorary education fraternity and was one of the founders of Sigma Kappa Phi social fraternity.

Aside from all the specific distinctions accorded him, perhaps Clark's greatest asset was his unique personal vitality as those of us who worked with him on the OAK were made especially aware. His contributions to this school will be remembered for a time greater than his years spent here, as will the less tangible, but highly personal mark left on each of us who knew him.
